HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing
the Past Week—General
News Notes.

The Hibernians in New York State have now a membership of over 16,000.

Rhode Island Hibernians will hold their State convention next week at Pawtucket.

Erie county, which includes Buffalo, has fourteen divisions and two military companies.

The divisions of Providence added twenty-five new members to their ranks at last week's meetings.

Seven more candidates were initiated at the last meeting of Division 6 of Troy, where the order is in a flourishing condition.

Binghamton Hibernians took prominent part in the laying of the corner-stone of the new St. Paul's church last Sunday week.

St. Paul Hibernians will have a big initiation on Sunday, September 11, at which National President Nolan will be present.

Minnesota State officers have planned to have Ramsey county banquet National President James Dolan at St. Paul on Monday, September 12.

S. J. Donlavey, of Denver, who is known to many Kentucky Hibernians, was elected State President at the Colorado State convention, held last week at Pueblo.

The action of the national convention has brought to an end the bitter controversy that has been waged for a year in Rhode Island. All the divisions are united and harmony again prevails.

Extensive preparations have been made for the Alabama State convention, which meets at Birmingham tomorrow. The State and county officers desire to make this the grandest and most representative convention ever held in Alabama.

Montana Hibernians will hold their State convention the first three days of next week at Missoula, the Union Theater having been secured for the sessions. The delegates and visitors will be banqueted and given a ride about the city to the principal places of interest.

A new corporation of the Ancient Order has been formed at Lenox, Mass. It is called the A. O. H. Beneficiary Corporation. It is provided that payments for death and funeral shall not exceed $200, and in case of sickness the patient shall not receive more than $10 a week.

Fully 10,000 people assembled in Youngstown last week during the Ohio State convention. It was the largest gathering that ever attended a State convention of the order in that State. On the first and second days outings were held at Avon and Idora Parks. Following the election of officers a banquet was served 1,500 people at Avon Park. The State parade was a large and imposing one.

Features of the New York State convention at Niagara Falls this week were a grand military and civic parade, reviewed by the Mayor and city officials, on Wednesday; a garden party and lawn fête Thursday evening at the Cataract-International Hotel, and on Friday a search-light trip on the Great George route. The convention opened Tuesday with 400 delegates, who first attended mass at St. Mary's church and were addressed by Rev. Father William Brown, State Chaplain.

In celebration of their tenth anniversary the Ladies' Auxiliary of Division 2 of Minneapolis gave a delightful entertainment and initiated three candidates, giving a beautiful exemplification of the ritual. The guests numbered over 300, including the State officers and visitors from Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois. Mrs. Mary A. Quinn, National President of the Auxiliary, made a timely address. After the initiation and speaking luncheon was served in the dining room to the entire assemblage. This auxiliary has a membership of 312.

BUCKINGHAM.

For next week the Buckingham announces the famed Bon Tons, said to be this year the greatest vaudeville aggregation on the road. Two glittering musical travesties are billed with an all-star cast. The olio is entirely new and will present to the patrons some of the old-time favorites and several new faces that are sure to make good. The opening attraction drew crowded houses daily, and the same will doubtless continue next week, as the show is a good one.

MASONIC THEATER.

The opening week of the Masonic Theater was characterized by large audiences and augurs well for the season. The next attraction will be "In Darkest Russia," a drama that has been well received in the larger theaters of the country. The usual matinees and popular prices will continue throughout the season.

IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

John Redmond and colleagues sailed Thursday for New York.

The second Clare fairs and exhibition, opened at Ennis, was very successful.

In a large mill at Celbridge the manufacture of paper from peat is being extensively carried on.

The tenants on the estate of Surgeon General Fawcett, near Mohill, have purchased their holdings.

All the tenants on Hanly's Cashel property have agreed to buy their holdings at twenty-two and a half years' purchase on present judicial rents.

At the consecration service of Armagh Cathedral the collection amounted to $30,000—a magnificent example of Irish faith backed up by substantial works.

Fifty-six passive resisters, chiefly leading free churchmen, have been struck off the voters' list at Scarborough for non-payment of outstanding amounts of rates.

Miss Flanagan, lady teacher of the Presentation Convent at Waterford, has been appointed principal of the Butlers-town female national school, in succession to Mrs. Butler.

At the Galway assizes a man named Martin Treacy was found guilty of assault on the Rev. W. Colgan at Athlery, and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labor.

Lieut. Col. A. Hickman Morgan, High Sheriff of County Cork, has been unanimously adopted Conservative candidate for the Isle of Wight at the next election, in succession to Major Seely, M. P.

George McKeon has been arrested at Maghera, County Derry, on a charge of having caused the death of a Scotch visitor named Christopher Boyd. Boyd intervened in a quarrel and was fatally stabbed.

At the Londonderry assizes, before Justice Kenny, a local piano tuner named Leonard Frank Adderley was awarded $4,500 damages for injuries received by the breaking of a carriage window at Omagh station.

At the half-yearly meeting of the proprietors of the Munster and Leinster Bank, held in Cork, Chairman Lillis made a strong protest against the Government's banking arrangements in connection with the land purchase act.

Justice Johnson, opening the Belfast assizes, said there were fifty-one persons to be tried, the offenses ranging from breaking glass to manslaughter. Belfast would be almost crimeless were it not for the Orangemen, who are more numerous there than anywhere else in Ireland.

Judge Ross has ordered the postponement of the sale of the Granville Knox estate to allow the Estates Commissioners to purchase it for the enlargement of the adjoining holdings. The estate comprises considerably over 200 acres, and its distribution will prove a great boon to the tenants.

Not for many years past have the farmers of the Monaghan district had better prospect of an abundant harvest than they have this season. The potato crop is particularly promising. The oat crop will suffer a little in consequence of the continued dry weather, but only in the straw. There is a very good flax raised in this neighborhood. Hay is splendid, both upland and meadow.

It is with the deepest regret that we announce the death of the Very Rev. Monsignor Plunkett, parish priest of Booterstown and Vicar General of the diocese. The deceased, who was one of the best known and most loved of the priests in the diocese of Dublin, passed away to his heavenly reward after a long period of suffering. The Rev. Monsignor Plunkett was at the time of his death sixty-seven years of age. He was born in the city of Dublin and received his preparatory education in Castlenock College, afterward going to Maynooth and then to the College of St. Sulpice, Paris. Monsignor Plunkett, after having served as curate, became administrator of Westland row parish, and was sent to Booterstown as parish priest on the death of the Rev. Father Fagan, in the year 1889, and was some time afterward made Vicar General of the diocese.
